

Sudden Madness

Sudden Madness

It is an exploration of the unpredictable mind. The piece captures the essence of obsession through persistent rhythmic patterns and sharp, dramatic dynamic contrasts.

The music oscillates between driving, relentless energy and melodic wandering, reflecting the thin line between structured thought and the chaotic beauty of a sudden break from reality.

Droplets in Blue

Inspired by a rainy day, this evocative piece utilizes repeated notes to mimic the steady, rhythmic fall of raindrops.

It is a contemplative study of color and mood, painting a melancholic yet beautiful sonic landscape

Canto Negro

Built around a joyful African theme, blending cultural heritage with contemporary piano textures.

Pinturas Negras

Inspired by Francisco Goya's haunting series of the same name, Pinturas Negras translates the darkest corners of the human psyche into sound. The piece follows a psychological descent—beginning with profound solitude and introspection, searching for a spiritual breath, and ultimately collapsing into the weight of despair.

It is a sonic reflection on the artist's isolation and the raw, unfiltered shadows of the soul.

Sombra y Luz

It is a compelling exploration of the human psyche, translated through the evocative voice of the solo piano. The composition dwells in the space between opposites, mirroring the internal struggle and eventual harmony of the human soul.

Key Elements:

- Dynamic Contrasts: The piece moves fluidly between delicate, whispered pianissimos—representing the vulnerability of "Sombra"—and powerful, resonant fortissimos that capture the breakthrough of "Luz."
- Register Exploration: By utilizing the full breadth of the keyboard, the piece creates a physical sense of depth. The deep, brooding bass notes ground the listener in shadow, while the shimmering, crystalline upper register evokes a sense of hope and clarity.
- Narrative Flow: The shifting textures act as a mirror to our own complexities, moving from moments of introspective stillness to bursts of intense energy.

Impression from a Dance

Impression from a Dance is an expansive toccata characterized by its open, improvisational spirit. The piece navigates a diverse emotional landscape, shifting from sharp, rhythmic drive to dark, introspective episodes and soaring lyrical moments.

The journey culminates in an unstoppable, relentless dance—a surge of momentum that leads to a state of total physical and material exhaustion
